Calling all those interested in applied mathematics! Northwestern University will be hosting the 2025 Chicago Area SIAM Student Conference on April 5th, 2025 from 9am to 4pm at NU Technological Institute (2145 Sheridan Road Evanston, IL 60208).

Undergraduate and graduate students are both welcome to a networking opportunity and low-pressure chance to share research with the Chicago applied math community.

To secure your spot, register using this link before March 15th.

Interested in giving an approximately two minute lightning talk on your research during the event? Make note of it in the registration form.

Keep your eye on the Northwestern SIAM website for updates on the conference. We look forward to seeing you in April!
